Financial Times: Asian Students Look to the West

June 24, 2013

From Financial Times, June 23, 2013:

> The 2013 FT Masters in Finance ranking of the top 40 full-time pre-experience programmes has a very western feel: it includes one business school from Australia, one from China, five from the US and 33 from Europe. The distribution of the 2013 enrolled cohorts could hardly be more different, however.
>
> Half of the students on these programmes are from Asia, with two-thirds of those coming from China. “China’s pent-up demand for Masters in Finance is supplying a large number of applicants to western schools,” says Clifton Brown from Freeman Business School at Tulane University.

To read the article in its entirety, visit FT.com.

http://www.ft.com/intl/cms/s/0/153dbace-d9c0-11e2-98fa-00144feab7de.html