The Advocate: Jeff Landry, Entergy want more nuclear power in Louisiana. Here's why.

April 10, 2026

Eric Smith, professor of practice and associate director of the Tulane Energy Institute , was interviewed by The Advocate for a story about Louisiana Gov. Jeff Landry's proposal to expand power plants, components and fuel enrichment sites.

> “People in energy are thinking about it again because they have looked at other options," said Eric Smith, associate director of the Tulane University Energy Institute. And if there's a need for clean, reliable power and lots of it, nuclear is about the only option, he said.

To read the story in its entirety, visit theadvocate.com:

https://www.theadvocate.com/baton_rouge/news/business/jeff-landry-entergy-want-more-nuclear-power-in-louisiana-heres-why/article_7d8eb294-fb13-572f-a560-ab616533759e.html