October 21, 2026

Mack Harger

Investment-focused finance professional leveraging a background in military leadership and intelligence, along with experience in private equity and wealth management, to evaluate opportunities and make strategic decisions in complex, high-stakes environments.

Undergraduate Institution:
Ole Miss

Fun fact about yourself:
I enjoy jumping out of aircrafts, whether that be recreationally or for my military career.

Work experience you're most proud of:
My deployment with the National Guard.

Why did you want to pursue an MBA:
I am pursuing my MBA to broaden my business perspective and build on the analytical and leadership experience I have already developed. I aim to strengthen my understanding of the energy industry and strategy and operations while preparing myself for greater leadership roles in the future.

Why did you choose Freeman:
I chose Freeman for its strong reputation, close-knit community and opportunities to integrate finance, energy and leadership in a practical business setting.

Where do you want to be in five years:
In five years, I hope to be progressing toward a senior investment role where I can lead deal evaluation, help shape investment strategy and contribute to a firm's long-term growth.

What do you like to do in your spare time:
In my spare time, I enjoy staying active through running, martial arts and working out, as well as spending time with friends and family.
